Brother Emery Mollenhauer Honored At Fall Convocation

Brother Emery Mollenhauer, F.S.C., Ph.D., La Salle University's chief academic officer for the past 21 years, was honored during the university's Fall Honors Convocation on Sunday, October 21 at 3 P.M. in the Union Ballroom.

La Salle's Brother President Patrick Ellis, F.S.C., Ph.D., presided over the Convocation and presented Brother Mollenhauer with an honorary doctor of humane letters degree. Brother Mollenhauer was sponsored for his honorary degree by Brother Daniel Burke, F.S.C., La Salle's president emeritus and professor of English.

Brother Mollenhauer, who resigned as provost last June after serving the university for 30 years, also received La Salle's first Sears Roebuck Foundation Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award.

This award is given to the faculty member who has made a distinct difference in the teaching climate of the college in such areas as model classroom teaching, campus leadership, pioneering teaching methodology, creative course development and/or instructional support. Brother Mollenhauer was selected for this award by a committee composed of administrators, faculty, students and alumni.

During the ceremony Brother Ellis also honored 501 Dean's List students, including 129 from the Evening Division, and six faculty members and administrators for 25 years of service to the university.

Brother Mollenhauer, who served as dean of the Evening Division for nine years (1960-69) before serving as academic vice president and then provost for the last 21 years (1960-1990), was honored for his "intelligence, energy, persistence, fairness, and generosity," and total dedication "to the sometimes daunting and always wearing work of academic administration."

He came to La Salle in 1960 as an assistant professor of English and was later named associate professor, a position he continues to hold. He has also been director of Summer Sessions since 1961.

During his tenure as dean of La Salle's Evening Division, enrollment increased to an all time high of 3,000, a new liberal arts program was initiated, and women students were admitted for the first time in La Salle's history in 1967.

His citation said in part, "His style has been that of get-to-it, typewriter thumping, consuming work. And thus he has kept the machinery of our academic enterprise purring along smoothly and efficiently for decades."

A native of Philadelphia, Brother Mollenhauer earned his bachelors degree in English from the Catholic University and his master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pittsburgh.

He is the author of a book, 20th Century Writers, and the co-editor of two books of poetry and plays.

Brother President Patrick Ellis, F.S.C., Ph.D., presents Brother Emery Mollenhauer, F.S.C., Ph.D., with an honorary degree as Brother Daniel Burke, F.S.C., Ph.D., Brother Mollenhauer's sponsor, looks on.

African American Alumni Reception

La Salle's second annual African American Alumni Reception will be held in the Ballroom, on campus, on Friday, February 1, 1991. Sponsored by the African American Student League and the Alumni Association, the reception serves as the kick-off event of the university's 1991 Black History Month celebration.

In addition to cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, the reception will offer attendees the opportunity to catch up on old friendships, share experiences and meet new and interesting people. Last year's event attracted nearly 200 faculty, administrators, alumni and students.

In addition, the second annual Warren E. Smith, M.D. Award will be presented to a prominent African American La Salle alumnus.

Any members of La Salle's faculty or administration who would like to attend the 1991 reception should contact the alumni office at extension 1535.
